Exploiters Not Wanted

The mining industry of the United States is so gigantic that it dwarfs imagination. Production of a ton of steel requires two tons of coal. In 1942, it required the coking of 75,000,000 tons of coal to smelt 60,000,000 tons of pig iron. An output of 70,000,000 tons of pig iron and 97,000,000 tons of steel ingots is expected in 1943.

It takes 7 tons of copper for one minute of combat by 50 fighter planes, and this means from 200 to 700 tons of copper ore. Other metals are used in proportions.

But coal is required to produce the heat to make most of them usable. It is the major source of energy in the United States. The railroads used $110,000,000 tons of coal in 1942; public utilities, 68,000,000 tons; and 135,000,000 tons went for necessary heating comfort.

There is no excuse for continuous labor warfare in our coal mines. Neither the public nor the majority of the employers want to exploit the coal miners. The vice that has caused wars for centuries, namely, the greed of a few leaders for unreasonable power, is causing trouble in our coal mines. The few who would exploit a government, a mine or a group of workers for selfish purposes, are the ones who cause the millions of ordinary citizens, including the miners themselves, unnecessary loss, grief and suffering.

It is time that dictatorship in either labor, industry, or government be ended.

Politics vs. The War

When Franklin D. Roosevelt submitted to the "forced draft" in 1940, it was freely forecast that should he be elected, he would again be a candidate for a fourth term.

Now that time has come. The drums are beginning to beat again to win the country to the belief that we have so far deteriorated as a people that there is but one among us qualified to rule. Twice, from the White House steps, New Dealers have told the country in recent weeks that it must be Roosevelt again.

This new campaign must bring two deep emotions into the breasts of Americans:

First, they will regret to see the President, with all of his responsibilities, bringing politics into the war for the next 18 months when victory on the foreign fields rather than at the polls is so important. They would choose to hear the President say that from now until January, 1945, he will devote his full time to winning the war and bringing our boys back home with the least loss of life; and then, with victory won or nearly won he would retire to his own grounds, leaving the White House over to the free choice of a free people.

The other emotion must be one of determination to repel the efforts of the President and the New Deal bureaucracy to perpetuate themselves in office. Americans will look at the confusion of Washington, the mangled food rationing, the three million of bureaucrats waiting the substance of the nation and interfering with production on the farms and in factories. They will realize that four more years of Roosevelt means four more years of bureaucracy, four more years of the Roosevelt-Congress complex, four more years of the Roosevelt-Congress complex. They will fix the blame where the blame belongs.

All in The Same Boat

The bottom of merchandise sales shows no indication of relief. The store has to struggle with no sales to supply their needs. Take the case of a typical country store. The people for miles around depend on that store for their daily necessities. The storekeeper works throughout the day, and then additional hours into the night keeping track of ration stamps, and endless rules and regulations. Almost every move he makes is under threat of fine or jail sentence for a mistake. Thousands of stores are actually going out of business to the real hardship of any communities, simply because the operators cannot stand the strain involved.

Chairman Patman of the House committee on small business, has ordered an investigation into all phases of the issuance of orders and regulations by the OPA. He says: "Conditions are forced upon retailers and wholesalers which do not comply with the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act."

It is to be sincerely hoped that every effort will be made to lighten or simplify the present complications surrounding retailing—not for the retailers alone, but for the consumer, who is the worst sufferer as thousands of necessary stores are forced out of business due to sheer physical inability to meet the complications of operation.

Memo To Farmers

Some of us can remember when the Department of Agriculture was dedicated to serving the farmer—not destroying him.

And, remembering, it is difficult to believe the concoctions the economic play-boys of the Department today can put together to plague the farmer.

We are indebted to the Washington Times-Herald for turning up this latest plan to re-make America:

"It seems the Bureau of Agricultural Economic wants to make 20 per cent of the rural population of the United States move to cities after the war, whether the ruralites like it or not."

"F. F. Elliot, chief agricultural economist of the department says the plan to cut post-war rural population to 80 per cent of its present level is in the projected revamping of American economy and possibly that of the entire world.

"The outline fits snugly with recurrent reports that the planners have in mind creation of a hugely industrialized United States with Latin America supplying the food."

Elliott tentatively suggests that farm production be maintained "at such levels and in such patterns as to permit adequate diets adapted to the economic resources and food habits of the different income groups."

The blue-print he is drawing up would include an organized market system, controlled presumably by the Government, with fixed prices for the farmer, the marketman, and the consumer.

We hope, of course, our farmer friends will not hear of Dr. Elliott and his plans to move them to the city.

You'll have touring fever.
Will you have a car?

Even the wizard auto industry can't switch from arms to autos overnight. After the Axis cracks, much time will pass before designers, engine builders, plastic-makers, accessory plants, glassworks, and the great assembly lines can again bring you a better new car.

Probably you're pining to win yourself peace by setting out as soon as you can for Grand Canyon, perhaps—or for Bigtown or the Coast—for the old folks whom you haven't seen since rationing started. The car that will be ready first—50 chances to 1—is your all-essential present car, encouraged to last its limit by Conoco Nth motor oil... oil that OIL-PLATES!... oil that's the foe of engine acids!

War didn't first bring these acids. Ordinary engine combustion has always bottled acids inside, as your engine stopped. When stops were brief and your engine heated up fully on long runs, the acids were not so harmful. But now limited speed, comparative coolness and long lay-ups invite acids to bite hard and corrode metals.

Corrosive air and water, you know, are checked by chromium-plating. And corrosive engine acids are checked by OIL-PLATING, closely deposited on inner parts by patented Conoco Nth oil, with its added modern synthetic inducing a sort of "magnetism." This can long maintain OIL-PLATING on surfaces that you want shielded from acids and depreciation. Don't wait... OIL-PLATE! Get Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. ## How'd you like to carry home 500 POUNDS OF CANDLES!

YOU: What on earth for? What would I do with all those candles?

Why, they'd light your home for a month.

YOU: Light my home? But I've got electricity!

Yes, but if you didn't have it, you'd need about a quarter-ton of candles to do the same job.

YOU: A quarter-ton? That's a lot of candles.

It's a lot of money, too. It would cost you about $200.

YOU: Wow! I couldn't afford that. My monthly electric bill now is only three dollars or so.

Well, that's just about average. But remember that only about 5% of it goes for light. The rest runs your radio and refrigerator—

YOU: Now, electricity's pretty cheap when you come to think of it.

Yes, sir! Cheaper than it's ever been. You're getting about twice as much electricity for your money today as you got fifteen years ago.

YOU: How can that be? My bill hasn't changed.

But think of the appliances you've added. Fifteen years ago, did you have an electric refrigerator?

YOU: No.

Radio? Electric mixer? Electric clock?

YOU: No... Say, how come I do get more electricity now?

That's easy. Experience—efficiency—sound business methods—

YOU: I don't get it.

It's simple. The electric companies under business management know their job. That job is to give you the best possible service at the lowest possible price. And they're doing it! Today—with many other prices going up—ELECTRICITY IS STILL CHEAP!

War Board Campaign For Increased Food Production

A plea from Food Administration in full the acreage they have to handle under the present circumstances" gave rise to this week to the West Virginia War Board's campaign for increased food production for 1943.

"This is the most important season in American history," the food administration declared. "We can still increase the number of acres we plant, a few days it will be too late to ask farmers, on their part, to take an extra degree of care this year for their country."

In view of the record production of livestock and poultry products scheduled this year, the Virginia farmers, the War Board points to Mr. Davis' statement that "extended production of feed grains and hay is vital to us." A tight supply of feed throughout the nation is expected along with corn and wheat in the state which fall in a state production goal.

Conservation Needed in practices, particularly for the improvement of pasture lands, previously indicated by the highest level of food and production, the War Board Contour farming and strip must be utilized and reclamation of County AAA county agricultural agency Soil Conservation Service sought.

West Virginia farmers increases in the production of pork, milk, eggs, and 1943. The use of agricultural practices, such as the ground limestone and phosphate, will do much to yield of many livestock.

CRAPY IS NAMED CHAIRMAN OF FARM SAFETY CAMPAIGN

The local board of agriculture is starting a campaign to save food and farm products from being wasted. The campaign is being conducted by the local board of agriculture, which is made up of representatives of the local farmers, and is being conducted in cooperation with the local board of health.

In an atmosphere of general excitement, this was written to a nine-day chapter in the lives of three young Navy aviators who were forced down at the Marlinton airport Sunday a week ago.

Becoming lost, and encumbered by "weatherheads," the Navy fliers landed here, and were then prevented from leaving by heavy rains which left the airport in a boggy condition.

With recent nice weather putting the field in fair shape, the job of preparing for their departure was completed Monday when the airport was rolled with equipment belonging to the State Road Commission.

As word was passed around Tuesday that the ferry pilots were expected to put their huge Curtiss-Wright dive bombers back into the air, a small group went to the local landing field about 10:30 a. m. Still apprehensive about the possibility of a take-off, the fliers debated about the condition and length of the airport. Finally deciding upon 2 o'clock for the venture, preparations were made to that effect. In the meantime the crowd of watchers grew to more than 150 persons. Business places in Marlinton locked their doors and owners and workers went to the field to see the departure of the unexpected visitors.

At 2 o'clock, the pilots began to warm up the huge engines, and some delay was met when one of them failed to start, and required cranking. Taxing to the far end of the field, one of the pilots got off the rolled part of the runway and became mired in a swampy place. Nearly two hours were spent in bringing the bomber out of the mire, necessitating use of the roller, and a school bus as towing power. Then came another period of cranking the stubborn engine which wore out the energy of a number of volunteers before the blade began to turn under its own power. Many persons left in disappointment, certain that the pilots were doomed to a more extended stay in Marlinton.

Shortly after 4 p. m. however, all planes were on solid ground and the giant propellers were making a terrific din. The crowd became tense as the three pilots ascended to their control seats and adjusted parachutes and other paraphernalia.

The pilots, too, had expressed their feeling of nervousness concerning the possibility of forcing the planes up to the required speed of 90 knots which was necessary for a take off for the 7-to-7 planes, on the grass-covered 2,000-foot runway of the strange field.

First to make the attempt was Flight Leader Lane, and cries of "He's going to make it!" arose as his plane sped down the runway. Lane used all the ground available, rising at the end of the field and veering down into the valley toward the town. His flight was followed immediately by Pilot Welfelt, who thrilled the bystanders to a high pitch when, taking advantage of a favorable gust of wind, he "gave her the gun" and roared into the air, using only about half the available ground space. He attained a high altitude quickly. In a cloud of dust the third aviator, Pilot Pete Wilson, began his dash down the field. It was evident that his plane was not showing the speed of the preceding ones, and onlookers had that "heart-in-your-throat" feeling as they watched him take the air giant down the runway. The bomber did not leave the ground until practically the entire field had been traversed, and seemed the low horizon at the end of the take-off by what seemed a scant margin.

Those who gathered to watch the departure felt that their sigh of relief must be shared by the aviators as the Curtiss-Wright "bomber" for Lt. Welfelt and Welfelt's "bomber" soared into the night blue sky.

That they appreciated the enthusiasm of the townspeople was evidenced by the Navy men, as each returned after wide circling maneuvers to come in over the heads of the townspeople at a terrific speed. But at the completion of the first air show, Flight Leader Lane announced the place as an aerial formation and the big plane began to circle again, circling, and finally disappeared in the general confusion of the night.

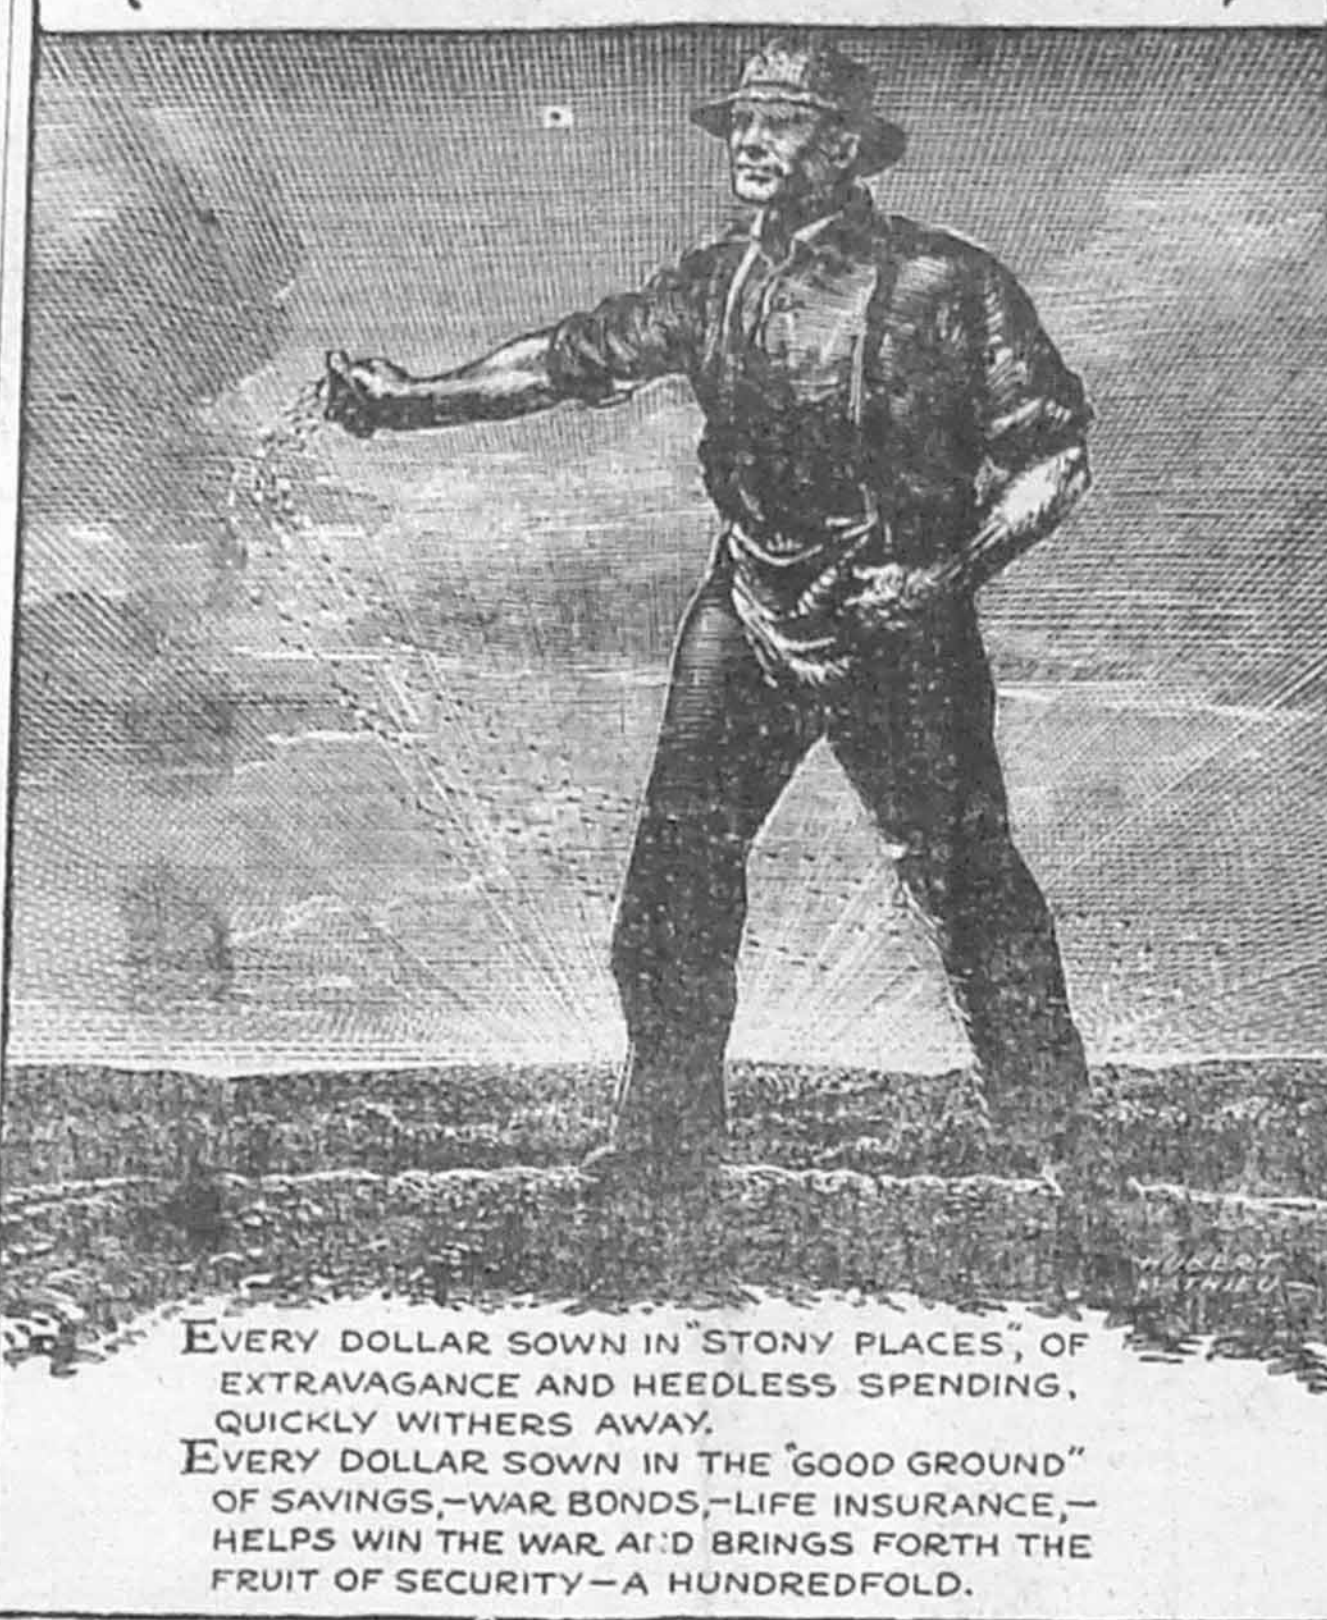

How surprising of Welfelt's and Welfelt's return seemed to the crowd of the young fliers. A group of young fliers came in two planes to land on the field. They were all aviators who "bumped in" at the airport Sunday night. They were all aviators who "bumped in" at the airport Sunday night.

U. College of Engineering Accelerates Program

The West Virginia University College of Engineering has just announced an accelerated program in which the beginning date of September 13, 1943, has been advanced to May 31, 1943. For the duration of the war three semesters of work will be given during each calendar year instead of two as hitherto given.

Under the new plan students entering the first of June will complete the regular four-year course of eight semesters by February, 1946, thus saving nearly a year and a half of time. This saving is made possible by utilizing three summers that ordinarily are vacation periods. A full semester of work will be given in a summer period.

The work under the new set-up will be practically the same as hitherto given except that the shop and field courses usually given for five weeks in the summer following the freshman or sophomore year will be omitted.

Dean R. P. Davis of the College of Engineering urges all high school graduates who are planning to enter the College of Engineering this fall to enroll on May 31 to start their freshman first semester's work. However, freshman students will be admitted in the fall, but some difficulties may be encountered in arranging schedules, due to the fact that some first semester courses may not be repeated the second semester.

Zed Smith In Action In New Guinea Area

(From Charleston Daily Mail)

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia (UP)—The New Guinea campaign broadened today into a land-air battle with both the Allies and the Japanese throwing strong aerial punches in the fight for the Mubo-Calamaua area.

In an effort to cripple Japanese air strength, three flights of Allied planes attacked the enemy airdrome at Lae, key base on Huon gulf above Salamaua, a communiqué reported. The attacks occurred Saturday, coincident with heavy raids by almost 100 enemy planes on Allied positions at Wau and Bobdubi.

Heavy planes, meanwhile, blasted at Rabaul, New Britain, airdrome and single planes bombed Gasmata and Cape Gloucester, both on New Britain, and Kavieng, New Ireland, all of which have airbases from which New Guinea can be reached.

The communiqué did not mention the ground fighting. Last reports indicated the battle—involving small units of both sides in the toughest kind of jungle country—was bitter.

Zed Smith, of Marlinton, W. Va., has made five missions since he got here a week ago—in one of which his gunner, Tech. Sgt. William Marshall, of Los Angeles, shot down a Zero.

IT Impresses ME

THAT a good start for this week's Impressions would be an account of the journey of this editor, in company with my friends Cal Price and Harper Smith, to the beautiful environs of Watoga State Park, to hobnob for an evening with visiting celebrities to our inviting county. On the generous invitation of "Sgt" Wills, member of the Conservation Commission staff, we were privileged to meet the renowned Grantland Rice, the nation's ace sports writer and film-master of the "Sportlight," viewed on screens throughout the country; Bobby Cruikshank, famous Scottish golf professional, who shepherds the flock of beginners and others at the Country Club of Virginia, down at Richmond, between matches with other top-notchers for national honors; and Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker Magazine, who with Mrs. Ross and the others were guests of L. A. Cohen, head of a squad of Merchant Police in Charleston. That the group had imbibed of the spirit of freedom which is an attribute of our mountain territory, there could be no doubt. No one was standing on ceremony of any sort, and the members of our little group were greeted as though we were all friends of long standing. Cal Price and "Grantie" spent most of the evening with arms around each other's shoulders in the true spirit of communion which probably exists when one dignitary meets another. . . . and the long reel of colored motion picture film which Host Cohen was shooting on the trip will, (if it isn't cut), show the outstanding reporter in company with a couple of country editors and a member of the banking profession, which is probably questionable company to have foisted upon one when there's no place to take to except the hills, and when one is a bit too tired to climb. . . . Unfortunately, most of the big trout in our streams seemed to elude the wiles of these outsiders, although there was a report current that they had caught a few, and that Rice had a 26-inch which he was going to present to Governor Neely the next day. . . . but I must be truthful enough to say that I didn't see it. . . . Ross' run of luck is said to have been such that he stomped into a state of unfitness a new rod with which he was casting when others around him drew in their catches, and none of the lowly fish responded to his willing advances. . . . Cruikshank was an amazing example of ceaseless energy and vitality; he came in from the day's trek with all the activity of a speck of dust in a windstorm, giving action readings of amorous Scottish shepherds, singing about a "Bonnie Lassie," and quoting Bobby Burns' untranslatable poetry in a Scotch brogue which was also understandable. . . . All in all, I think that our party was extremely glad of the invitation to visit with the notables and the several likable representatives of the Commission. . . . we shall undoubtedly remember it for a long time to come. . . . And I feel safe in predicting that, even if the notables do not remember us, they too will remember their visit to beautiful Watoga in the mountains of Pocahontas. . . . Rice, because it was here that he suffered the affliction of getting a gnat in his eye. . . . Cruikshank, because of a certain "difficult situation" which was imposed upon him. . . . Ross, because he had to wait so long for his supper. . . . Cohen, because it gave him another opportunity to bring big-name people into the state. . . . and the Commission men, because they found this sort of "pleasure" trip much harder than working. . . .

THAT the small-world item in connection with the above incident was the discovery that this editor, in his varied past, had once worked for the same "boss" for whom Grantland Rice and Harold Ross had once worked (though Ross says the "boss" fired Rice) . . . a rather excitable and pugnacious individual named Guy T. Viskiski . . . who, when we knew him, certainly kept things in a hum, and who, when he couldn't go himself would send a dynamic note signed "G. T. V." . . . And another thing, is that the dinner which was served to all the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tucker was the kind which comes under the headings of both "delicious" and "refreshing" . . . and we think they handled the whole affair in a rather grand style. . . .
